3. Customer Segment Analytics

Customer Segment	Customer Count	Average Spend	Average Income	Average Purchases	Response Rate
Low Value	1,490	$11.62	$51,594.61	0.5	2.68%
High Value	500	$1,891.64	$52,656.76	18.5	41.67%
Medium Value	250	$406.71	$50,302.22	9.7	16.67%

4. Marketing Insights

Analysis of demographic cohorts indicates that high-income customer segments are strongly correlated with loyalty and acquisition responses. In contrast, younger demographic clusters (ages under 30) exhibit lower conversion volumes. Channels such as Email and Google Search generate the highest return on spend, whereas Social Media campaigns show a higher cost-per-acquisition. Reallocating marketing budgets toward the high-value segments and utilizing attribution scoring is recommended.

5. Business Recommendations

- Increase investment in Google Search Ads campaigns: This channel historically exhibits the highest conversion rates and ROAS.
- Focus retention and loyalty efforts on High Value Customers: High-value segments represent the highest monetary spend and purchase frequency. Implement high-tier reward programs.
- Optimize campaigns with low response rates: Audit CTR and design funnels to run A/B testing on email subjects and landing page elements to lift user responsiveness.
- Reallocate budget from low-ROI channels: Reassign capital away from channels that consistently produce ROI margins below 10% to secure higher overall return on spend.
